Jargal Expedition.

A person wearing a white cap and a dark, long-sleeved traditional Mongolian garment is riding a dark brown horse. The rider is positioned in the lower right quadrant of the frame. In the background, several other horses of various colors (white, light brown, dark brown) are visible, some of which are also being ridden. The entire scene is set in a vast, open green field under a clear sky. The overall tone of the image is serene and evocative of a nomadic lifestyle.

A look inside one of the world's last truly nomadic culture.

NATURE OF OUR DISCOVERY TOURS

DISCOVER OFF THE BEATEN PATH

Our vibrant tradition, culture, lifestyle and diverse natural environments will energize your senses and satisfy your most adventurous travel dreams.

HAVE AUTHENTIC EXPERIENCES

Communicate with local people about why and what and how. As the doors open up and you are more comfortable with them and they with you they will start to ask you questions as well. This is a beauty of cultural exchange for all involved. This bond of cultural learning is unique and a fun way to travel getting to know the local people. It requires a willingness to leave some of our own cultural norms in our luggage during the trip in order to fully dive in. It's genuine. The rewards are incredible.

Mongolian pastoral herders make up one of the world's last remaining nomadic cultures. For millennia, herders have lived on the Mongolian land and they still live in traditional felt tents, subsisting on the meat and milk of their animals, and living as free as the country is wide. The tents are called gers, and come in all sizes but one shape circular. Gers are held together without a single nail, they stand as monuments to a nomad's genius and self-sufficient way of life. Average size of nomadic family is 6-7 and they usually have 4-5 children. Mongolian women have always had a prominent position in Mongol society. Like the men, nomadic women have a well-defined role in the Mongolian nomad's way of life. Hospitality is what impresses visitors most about Mongolian people. To be a visitor in Mongolia is to be an honoured guest in the shared home of an entire people. Nomads devote their day tending to their livestock watching over, milking, shearing, or combing to produce felt and felt clothes, cheese and other milk dairy products. Mongolians are master horse riders. Many families own large herds of horses that roam the fenceless steppe, and fermented mare's milk, which the Mongolians call airag, is a popular drink. Traditionally, the nomads' skill on horseback has been essential for guarding their herds and driving them to pasture.

For this tour, you will stay separate ger neighbouring nomadic family and meals are prepared by our chef and served to you in your ger. You typically day will be experience in daily life of nomadic family and socialize with team as a family member and relax. We think it is a great tour which gives you a real insight into Mongolia. As always with us though, you can change any of this if you want. Make it longer or shorter it's up to you.

This offer will give you incredible experience about nomadic culture and tradition and will stay you lifelong warm memories.

YOUR HOLIDAY INFORMATION

Holiday Status

You no longer need to worry about cancellations due to low numbers as most of our departures in Mongolia, whether joining shared services for excursions or completely going solo, are guaranteed to depart. Depending on its uniqueness, adventure holidays are usually sold all inclusive of accommodation, meals and activities described. The price you pay is usually a direct reflection on the level of service.

What the Price Includes

All of our holidays include the following services, as described in our itineraries: domestic flights (where appropriate), land transport, accommodation, meals, trip leaders and support staff and entrance fees to some national parks.

What the Price does not include

Visas, vaccinations, bar bills, extra drinks with meals, hotel refreshments, laundry, telephone calls, souvenirs, meals other than those specified in the relevant trip dossier.

Transport

All transports during the trip are included transfers as per the itinerary.

Accommodation

Besides offering well measured five star hotel in UB, we offer Ger camps which are the most common accommodation outside UB on our tours. Camping and stays in Ger camps are popular options, with some beautifully appointed stays in remote locations available for the adventurous. Accommodation in the Ger camp is two guests to share one Ger which is quite cozy well equipped with the key requirements being cleanliness, safety, comfort and a good location.

Family Rooming

We will room your family in the most appropriate way using a mixture of twin, triple, double and single rooms as necessary. We will leave it to you to decide who shares with whom in your family group.

Single Rooms

Most tours are based on customers sharing twin-bedded rooms. However, on many tours we offer the opportunity to pay a supplement to pre-book a single room.

Included Meals

All our tours include full board, but other meals are often not included especially in UB. This allows you to try the cuisine in local restaurants and also to choose what and where to eat and how much to spend. Please ask us before booking if you have any specific requirements.

Passports

A full passport is required for all of our holidays and this should be valid for at least six months after the completion of your trip. To secure your booking and avoid incurring additional charges, you must provide information on your booking form precisely as it is shown on your passport.

Visas

You may require a visa to enter Mongolia. Your consultant will be happy to advise you on visa requirements.

Booking

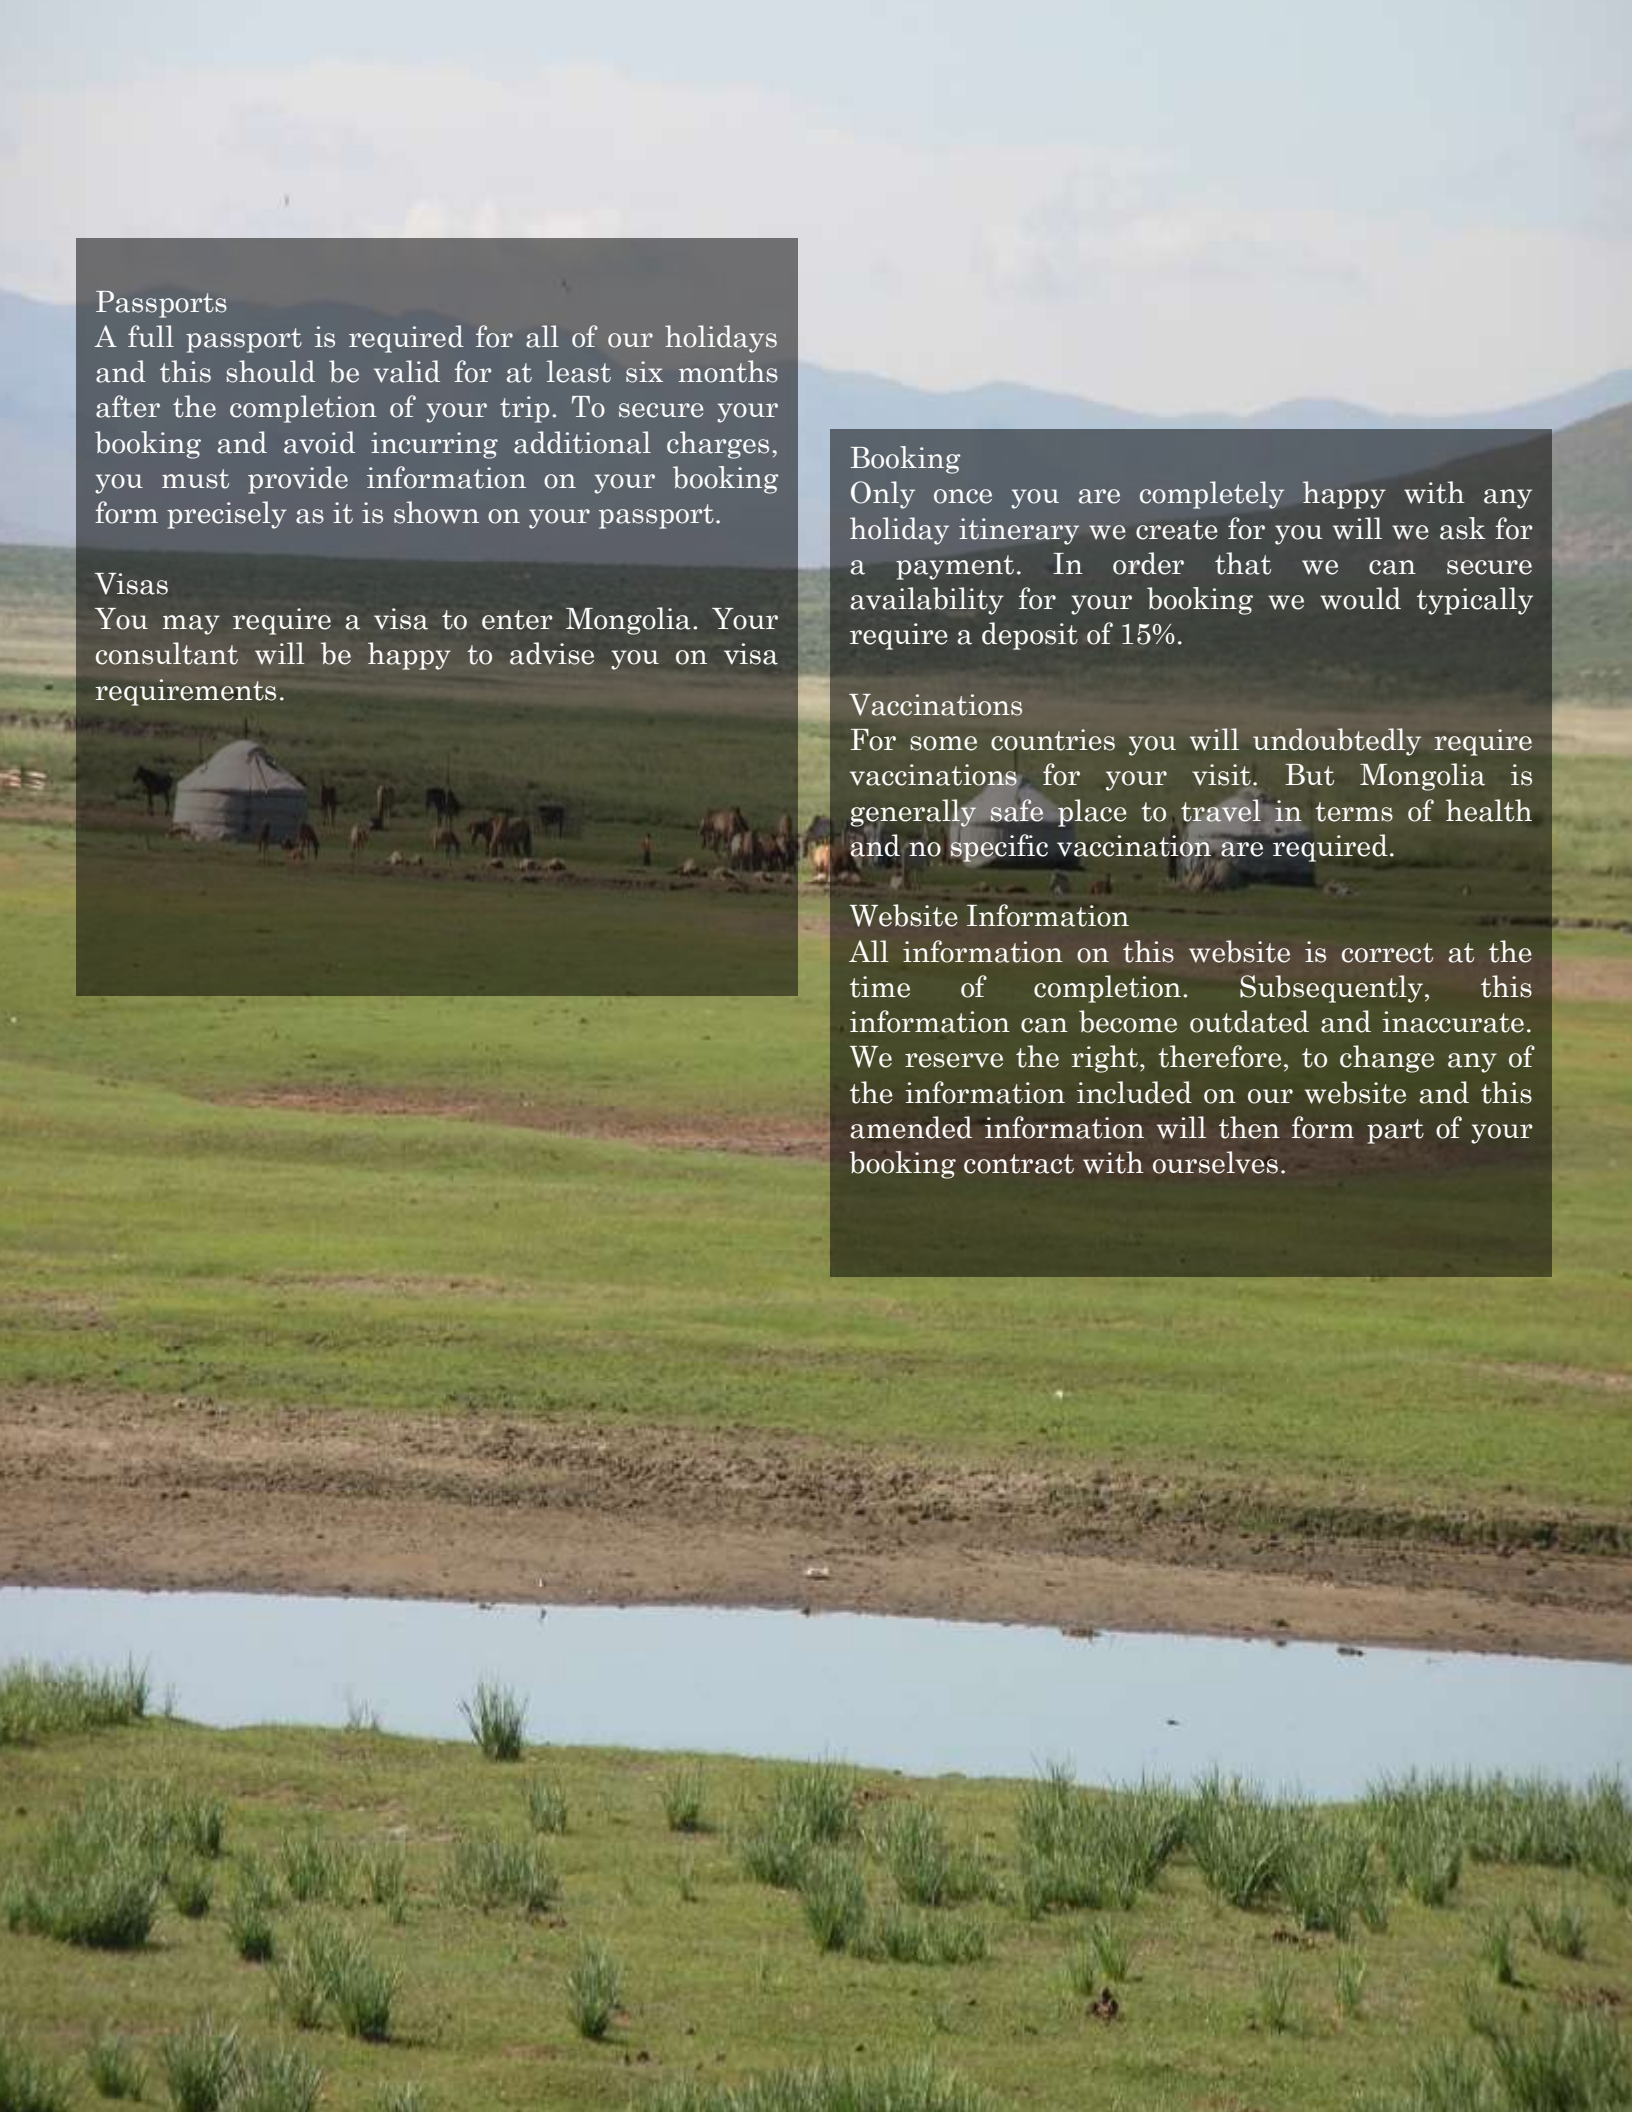

Only once you are completely happy with any holiday itinerary we create for you will we ask for a payment. In order that we can secure availability for your booking we would typically require a deposit of 15%.
