The central region has many historical sights and natural wonders in Mongolia's heartland, particularly in the Orkhon River Valley, which contains archaeological remains dating back several centuries. Few traces remain of Kharakhorum, the 13th-century capital of the Mongol Empire, but the nearby temple of Erdene Zuu was reputedly built from its ruins.

Furthermore, Khorgo extinct volcano is located on the northern part of Khangai Mountain Range and is rich in beautiful scenery of mountains, cliffs, rapid streams, rivers, lakes, extinct volcanoes, green forests and pastures, where the long-haired yaks and horses pasture. After exploring it, you'll reach Terkh White Lake and the lake is an astonishingly beautiful lake with relatively pure fresh water. The lake was designated as a Wetland of International Importance during the Ramsar Convention in 1999. Later, Jargal Jiguur hot spring is perfect next stopover point after driving several hours.

With its 4 islands, Khuvsgul Lake is Mongolia's largest and deepest lake and known as "Blue Pearl". The Lake area is surrounded by Forest Mountains and only Eg River flows out from the lake although total 111 rivers flow in Huvsgul Lake. The lake is 136 km long, 36 km wide, 262 meters deep from its surface to the bottom and reserves over 2% of the world's fresh water.

The north-western part of Khuvsgul lake basin is a native place of reindeer people. The culture of these people have changed little and like many of Mongolia's nomads, and particularly those in the north, shamanism plays an important role in their lives. Fun things to do in the area is horseback riding, hiking, drive upper hills to see the lake from top view and visit local nomad families.

This holiday is full of enough activity, excitement and unforgettable experiences to last a lifetime.
